Conference on the Soviet Intelligence Threat to the US,
17-19 November 1987,

1. The purpose of this memorandum is to begin preparations for an interagency conference on 17-19 November to review and evaluate the Soviet intelligence threat to the US. Your participation, advice and agenda suggestions and contributions are essential to the achievement of conference objectives.

2. We want to mix senior headquarters personnel with senior and mid-level field personnel from various agencies who directly deal with the Soviet threat in order to present a variety of viewpoints and experience. In our view, it is especially important to bring both domestic and foreign based field representatives together who are targeting the Soviet presence. The sharing of their experience and outlook will enhance both elements' approach to this common objective. Presentations and discussions are expected to be as detailed and specific as possible consistent with operational security needs.

3. The conference is expected to bring together our collective knowledge about the Soviet human and technical intelligence threat in the US and selected areas abroad where the level of Soviet intelligence activity is high. We want to combine analytical, technical and operational expertise in this comprehensive review. The timing of the conference is apropos of a renewed community concern about the Soviet intelligence services and with the expected, periodic inspections of Soviet INF monitoring teams at critical facilities in the US and at US military facilities abroad.

4. Headquarters and field representatives from the FBI, CIA, and uniformed services' intelligence components will compose a large majority of the conference. NSA and other DoD elements will round out the attendance to provide their unique insights and information about Soviet intelligence services.

5. To keynote the conference, we intend to invite an expert on Soviet affairs to provide a political and economic backdrop to current Soviet intelligence objectives and operations against the US.

6. We have identified representatives in participating agencies, as designated in the distribution, to refine the proposed agenda and select personnel for presentations or attendance. We would like to have our first meeting of these representatives on 6 October 1987 at CIA Headquarters. I can be reached on [] secure to confirm this date.
